MY FUTURE! I have a lot of dreams for the future, one of them is travelling to all around Colombia because I think we should know well our country first than other countries. Another dream is to meet Shakira and have a photo with her, also I want to buy all of her albums. I think I will have enough money to buy so many clothes and have a good style as a lawyer, I will be an activist and I'll help as many people as I can with my job. I hope I will have a nice boyfriend and adopt some children to make a nice family with a lot of love.

Thank you for sharing your text about your future plans! Let's take a look at your writing.

Good things about your text

- You express clear dreams and aspirations for your future.
- You have a nice variety of ideas, from personal goals to professional ambitions.
- The structure is logical, moving from one dream to another.

Things you need to fix: Now, let's see some areas to improve. Here is a table with your mistakes and some questions to think about:

| Errors and Mistakes | Reflective Questions | Analysis of your mistakes |
|---|--|--|
| "travelling to all around Colombia" | - What phrase can you use to express this idea more naturally? - Can you think of other ways to say "all around"? | This phrase is not commonly used in English. Instead of "travelling to all around," you might want to say "traveling all around" or "traveling throughout Colombia." |
| "we should know well our country first than other countries." | - What is the correct comparative structure to use here? - How would you express the idea of knowing your country better than others? | The phrase "first than" is incorrect. You should use "before" instead of "than" to compare knowing your country to knowing other countries. |
| "I think I will have enough money to buy so many clothes and have a good style as a lawyer" | - What verb tense should you use to express your future plans? - Can you think of a more concise way to express your style as a lawyer? | The phrase is a bit unclear. Instead of "have a good style as a lawyer," you might want to say "have a good sense of style as a lawyer." The future tense should be consistent throughout your text. |
| "I'll help as many people as I can with my job." | - Is there another way to express your willingness to help? - How can you make this sentence more impactful? | This sentence is clear, but you could consider using a more active voice or varying your sentence structure to make it more engaging. |
| "I hope I will have a nice boyfriend and adopt some children to make a nice family with a lot of love." | - How can you express your hopes for the future in a more optimistic way? - What synonyms could you use for "nice" to add variety? | The word "nice" is repeated. You might want to use synonyms like "wonderful" or "loving" to add more depth to your descriptions. |

I don't understand why is it unclear to say: "have a good style as a lawyer"

Fred - Writing Feedback Bot (Remix)

Thank you for your question! The phrase "have a good style as a lawyer" can be a bit unclear because it doesn't specify what kind of style you are referring to. In English, "style" can relate to various aspects, such as fashion, approach to work, or even communication.

To improve clarity, you might want to specify what you mean by "style." For example, if you are talking about fashion, you could say "have a good sense of fashion as a lawyer." If you're referring to your approach or method in your profession, you might say "have a good professional approach as a lawyer."

This way, your reader will have a clearer understanding of what you mean, and it will make your writing more precise.

Second Version Correction

Here is your revised text with some corrections highlighted in bold:

MY FUTURE! I have a lot of dreams for the future; one of them is traveling throughout Colombia because I think we should know our country well before other countries.

Another dream is to meet Shakira and have a photo with her; also, I want to buy all of her albums. I think I will have enough money to buy so many clothes and have a good sense of style as a lawyer. I will be an activist and I'll help as many people as I can through my work as a lawyer. I hope I will have a wonderful boyfriend and adopt some children to make a loving family.

Differences Explained:

1. "travelling to all around" → "traveling throughout": This change makes the phrase more natural in English.
2. "we should know well our country first than other countries" → "we should know our country well before other countries": This rephrasing corrects the comparative structure and improves clarity.
3. Added punctuation: Commas and semicolons were added for better sentence structure and flow.
4. "help as many people as I can with my job" → "help as many people as I can through my work": This change makes the sentence sound more professional and clear.
5. "make a nice family with a lot of love" → "make a loving family": This revision simplifies the phrase and avoids repetition of "nice."

Now, let's talk about how you can further improve your second version to sound even more natural and native-like:

1. Vary Sentence Structure: Try to mix short and long sentences for better rhythm. For example, "I have a lot of dreams for the future; one of them is traveling throughout Colombia." can be rephrased to "I have many dreams for the future. One of them is to travel throughout Colombia."
2. Use Synonyms: Instead of repeating "nice," consider using synonyms like "wonderful," "loving," or "beautiful" to enhance your vocabulary.
3. Add More Details: You could elaborate on your dreams. For example, instead of just saying you want to meet Shakira, you could add why you admire her or what you would like to ask her.
